About:

Ladislava Ivančová teaches English as a foreign language with a focus on the topics of foreign language teaching methodology and teacher training.

Dr. Ivančová has been working at the Department of Languages at the Faculty of Chemical and Food Technology since 2020. She completed her Master's degree in 2006 at the Faculty of Arts of the University of Prešov in Prešov in the field of Modern Non-Slavic Philology with a specialization in English Language and Literature. She received her Ph.D. in 2016 at the Faculty of International Relations of the University of Economics in Bratislava, where she completed her doctoral studies. The topic of her Ph.D. thesis was "The position of English in the context of the language policy of the European Union."

During her time in the private sphere, when she was teaching English in corporate courses and translation, she was interested in the field of further education of teachers of English in the certified course "Teaching English as a Foreign Language", which she completed by obtaining a TEFL certificate in Barcelona in 2016.

She is currently extending her qualifications by studying the Teaching English to Speakers of Other Languages (DipTESOL) course accredited by Trinity College London which she plans to complete in 2023.

She is the Head of the independent Department of Languages at the Faculty of Chemical and Food Technology and a supervisor for the English language courses taught at FCHPT. She also serves as the department's timetable clerk.

Dr. Ivančová worked at the University of Economics in Bratislava and taught English for Special Purposes courses at the Department of Languages, Faculty of Arts, Comenius University in Bratislava before taking up the post of Head of the Department of Languages.
